Training and Consultancy Services

LWTT has an established reputation for quality and innovation in training, consultancy and research services across a range of policy areas relevant to the environment, regeneration, social inclusion and community learning and development. We have a strong interest in urban regeneration and have worked to help build capacity in this context since 1995.

Our approach to our consultancy work is based on:

Being flexible. We recognize that projects are subject to both external and internal influences that to achieve results we have to adapt and be flexible.

Being inclusive. We seek to involve all parties with a stake in projects and the clients activity development and delivery of our work.

Being creative. While our work is based on tried and tested methods we believe that progress results also require new solutions bringing added value for our clients.

What we can offer you:

-  Research and evaluation of projects and programmes
-  Policy and programme development support
-  Purpose designed training and staff development
-  Organisation development and funding consultancy
-  Management support and business planning

For those with an interest in community development and participation
